Come Over October

LocalWineEvents.com is excited to announce its participation in the "Come Over October" campaign, a vibrant initiative designed to reignite the spirit of togetherness through wine and shared moments.

Founded by renowned wine writer Karen MacNeil (The Wine Bible) and public relations experts Gino Colangelo and Kimberly Noelle Charles DipWSET, "Come Over October" encourages everyone to invite their friends, family, and colleagues over (or to a local establishment) to enjoy wine and celebrate in-person connections throughout October.

The heart of the campaign is simple yet powerful: to inspire people to reconnect by hosting gatherings, large or small, and sharing wine. Through the simple act of sharing wine, we'll share other things that matter—generosity, caring, and a belief that being together is an essential part of human happiness.

To support this initiative, LocalWineEvents.com has dedicated a special section on its website to "Come Over October" events to generate more exposure, and they're inviting businesses and enthusiasts in the wine and food industry to join this meaningful campaign.

Let's spread the word and bring people together this October! To find COO events near you and to submit your own, visit localwineevents.com/come-over-october.

Florida: October is "Guardianship Month"

Florida Governor Charlie Crist has declared October as "Guardianship Month." NASGA would point Governor Crist's attention to the fact that the original intent of guardianship/conservatorship law - "guard," "protect" and "conserve" - is no longer being complied with in a frightening and growing number of cases involving court-appointed fiduciaries. Wards' estates, instead of being conserved, are being plundered in the guise of fiduciary fee billings for "services," either not... ➤
